The default login details for a default Sangoma handset is;

Username: admin

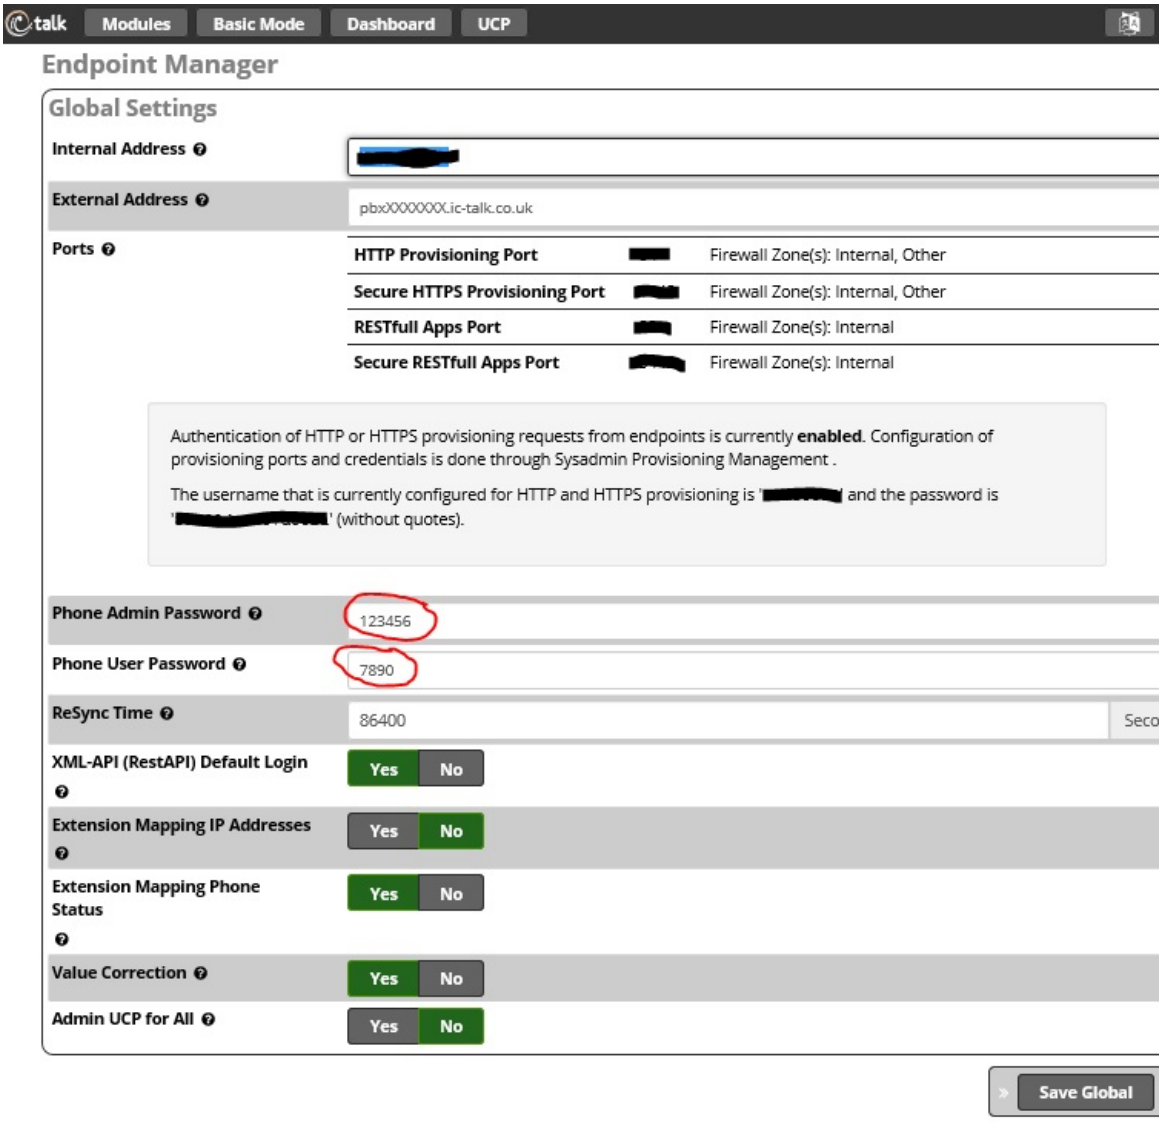

Password: admin

This should be the default password for handsets out of the box or after a factory reset, please note that these handsets support zero touch and if purchased via us they will most likely upon first boot or reset just connect directly to your PBX and the password will change to your PBX systems password. This will be the password you have specified for handset admin and user access see steps below;

Then in the next screen add your desired passwords that your handsets will be set to;
